Introduction to GeoGames

The primary purpose of the GeoGames, sponsored by AGRU, is to highlight the professionalism and the importance that the installers and the welding technicians play in the installation of geosynthetic materials. But as installers, we want to do that in a fun and informative way rather than in a lecture hall. That is why the GeoGames was created—to highlight YOU—the installer. (after all, the blueprints are just pretty pictures until installers show up.) We ask that you use your best technicians to compete in the games. IAGI will be inviting all those who attend the GeoAmericas 2024 conference to this gathering and we want our CWTs to shine!

You are asked to wear a company team shirt that includes your company's name / logo. Please wear proper safety equipment during competition. IAGI wants to demonstrate that IAGI members take safety seriously—even when we get together for a good time.

Put your company's best foot forward and let your CWTs shine on the GeoGames battlefield!

Good Stuff to Know Before You Sign Up

In 2023, IAGI held virtual competitions for GeoGames, sponsored by AGRU and we will be doing that for the 2024 competition. Each team will be asked to build a geomembrane layout (see Team Instructions) using extrusion and wedge welding, proper seam testing techniques etc. The competition will be videotaped. Points are given for both quality and speed of installation. Proctors will oversee the entire process. The results of the competition will be shown and announced during the GeoGames event in Toronto, Canada on 29 April 2024. The winner of this event will take home a trophy and bragging rights.

There is no fee to participate in the GeoGames but you must be a member in good standing of IAGI as of 1 March 2024.

You must hold a CWT that is current as of 1 January 2024 and that does not expire until after 1 May 2024.

Turn in the application no later than 15 January 2024. Claim your place in this competition and register today!

1. Be professional and make it fun! (Cheering sections located outside the testing area are welcome)
2. Encourage your welding technicians to wear company apparel such as shirts / safety vests / hard hats with your company logo on them. It is okay to make this entry a shameless plug for your company. After all, that is why we are doing this — for recognition!
